

BITTERSWEET

She's Bittersweet without the sweet
But she creeps into your soul.
I can't sleep, cause she haunts my dreams
Why can't I let her go.

If I knew then what I know now
I never would have said those things
As you walked out, as you walked out
But I'll take the blame for all the things
If it would change the way you look at me
But destiny, destiny is bittersweet.

Tragically, we both don't see
And we both won't let it go
We constantly don't believe
And all the lies take their toll

If I knew then what I know now
I'd stand up on the roof and shout
Shout out loud, shout out loud
And then the world would finally see
There's a price to pay when you believe
Destiny, destiny is bittersweet.
