

DRINKING MY WAY TO RIGHTEOUSNESS

CHORUS

Drinking my way to righteousness
Drinking my way to truth
I tried to drink away all my wrongs
All I drank away is you

I done drank away about half my life
Just being comfortably numb about half of the time
It's just the way that I spend my time.
I tried to drink my way from wrong to right
But I ended where I started each and every night
Then I said last night was my last time

CHORUS

I've been more than three sheets, I'd say about five
And the wind just announced that she's no friend of mine
And then my wrongs were right, in my mind
Through every happy ending and every black eye
I can honestly say it's been one hell of a ride
But all my wrongs still aren't right
